PRACTICING FOR GREAT HANDICAP

Enthusiastic Shooters Turn Out in Large Number and Made Good Scores.

What was lacking in attendance was abundantly made up in enthusiasm at the practice shoot held on the grounds of the Richmond Gun Club yesterday afternoon. All the shooters of the city are looking forward to the great match to be held here in May, and will utilize every opportunity to shoot between now and then to get their hands in.

On May 25th, 26th and 27th will be held in Richmond the Southern Grand American Handicap, which will bring to this city shooters from all over the country. The handicap will be held on the grounds of the Deep Run Hunt Club, and the headmaster of the shooting shooters will be the Jefferson Hotel.

The scores yesterday were as follows:

H. J. Walsh, 100 99
MacCalland, 100 84
Wiles Lawrence, 100 80
Harrison, 100 76
"Brownie", 100 76
Heckler, 100 69
"New", 100 66
Johnston, 75 67
Chico, 50 46
Lohman, 50 38
James Lawrence, 50 28
Rucker, 50 25
"Poor Bill" Johnston, 50 25

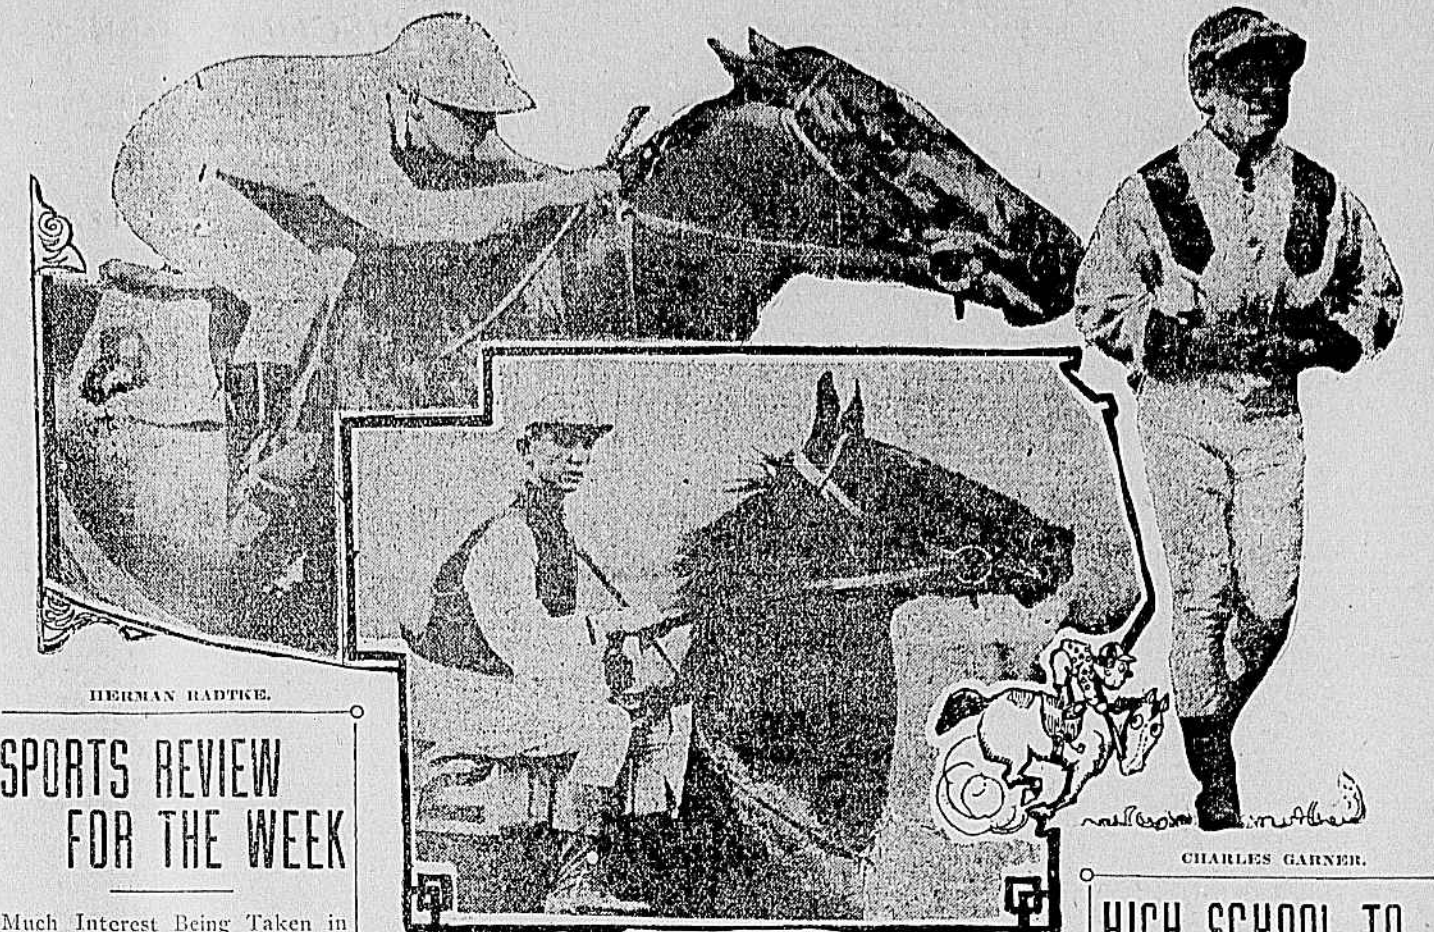

A feature of the contest, and one that commends itself to pool players, is the fact that no pool table is to be played, which is conceded to give every one a good chance to win. No charge will be made to the players in the tournament.

KEEN RIVALRY EXPECTED ON RACE TRACKS THIS SEASON BETWEEN THREE STAR JOCKEYS

HEINMAN RADTKE. WALTER MILLER. CHARLES GARNER.

SPORTS REVIEW FOR THE WEEK

Radtko Hopes to Humble Pride of Marvelous Miller

BY HAYARD RALEY. NEW YORK, February 17.—Like furies from three blast furnaces against the black curtain of night, Heinman Radtko and Garner stand out above the jockeys that will perform on Metropolitan tracks this season. Race-gamers may as well prepare themselves to see the majority of horses piloted this season by a lot of wool, chubby, short-legged, chuckle-headed apprentice boys and stable lads, masquerading as jockeys. The exodus of older riders to Europe, the velvet-handed, nursing, crafty Shaw, the sometimes brilliant Lynne, the desperate Tommy Burns, and all the rest, leaves only Miller, Radtko and Garner to fight for the riding honors.

"Marvelous" Miller broke all records last season for winning mounts, and is sure to be the idol of race-gamers again. But Radtko seldom failed to outstride Miller when they met in a finish last year, and now, sobered by a long suspension and fired by a desire to make good to his employer and to the public for the temper and bad rides that culminated in his being disciplined, Radtko is sure to press Miller hard in the race for popular favor.

His enforced rest has, his friends declare, cured Radtko of the sulkiness that marred his riding in the East last year and was the direct result of a swelled head over his marvelous success in the West and the fabulous price that the young Cleveland millionaire paid to J. O. Keene for Radtko's contract.

When he wills Radtko is a very smooth rider, sitting on his horse as if he were part of the animal, responding to every stride with a rhythmic ease that is seldom acquired even by years of practice. And in a desperate finish Radtko is a demon. No rider in recent years could touch him in a finish, unless it was Jack Martin, when the money was down. Radtko has not been idle during his period of suspension, but has kept himself in condition exercising horses every morning like any stable lad. He may ride at New Orleans soon to put himself on edge for this battle with Miller on the big tracks.

Meanwhile, Miller is still marvelous. At San Francisco he is far and away the leading rider. He is still like a flash of light away from the post, and he is improving greatly in riding a finish, heretofore his one weak spot. But the greatest thing about Miller is not his ability to beat the barrier or cajole a sluggish, sulky horse into running freely; it is the feeling that he is always trying that has endeared him to the racing public and brought him many soft mounts upon which almost any other rider could probably have won.

The dominant characteristic of little Charley Garner is his eye courage. In spite of sickness and repeated falls, he leads the list at New Orleans this winter over riders of experience like Nicol and Martin, both of whom, however, bear the reputation of money riders—rather, jockeys—out to pile up the greatest possible number of winning mounts.

Garner is a second Harry Spencer in his frigidity in a tight finish. His ability to sit still at the critical moment, more than anything else, enabled him to win the $10,000 Metropolitan Handicap for his employer, John A. Drake, in a single day, a selling plate, which he did not finish as rider as Miller, nor so brilliant as Radtko, but, all the same, he promises to be a factor in many of the great races of the year.

Devault is captain of the team. Following is the schedule: March 23—Fishburne Military Academy, at Lexington. March 20th—Pennsylvania State College, at Lexington. April 5th—Villanova College, at Lexington. April 9th—Georgetown University, at Washington, D. C. April 10th—United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis, Md. April 13th—Maryland Agricultural College, at Lexington. April 16th—Tulane College of North Carolina, at Lexington. April 20th—Davidson College of North Carolina, at Lynchburg. April 23d—University of Georgia, at Lexington. April 27th—Virginia Polytechnic Institute, at Lexington. May 4th—Roanoke College, at Lexington. May 11th—Open. May 15th—Central University of Kentucky, at Lexington. May 18th—University of Tennessee, at Lexington.

Standing of Teams. The standing of the basketball teams of the Y. M. C. A. up to Saturday night, is as follows:

Went. Lost. P. C.
Britons, 8 2 .750
Grecks, 8 2 .750
Spartans, 8 4 .667
Colts, 5 3 .625
Cavaliers, 5 3 .625
Saxons, 3 9 .250
